

Analysis and Comment

Denmark's capital, Copenhagen, offers an idea of how pleasant and practical the Velotopian dream of a bike-friendly city might be.

AAP/Visit Denmark

Utopia: seriously, good urban planning should aspire to it

By Steven Fleming, University of Tasmania and Angelina Russo, University of Canberra

The Australian television satire Utopia invited the public along for a laugh that architects and planners have been sharing for decades. We laugh at the idea of utopia to disassociate ourselves from the...

Research and News

Abbott government to contract private company to provide Ebola assistance in West Africa

By Michelle Grattan, University of Canberra

The Abbott government is set to announce on-the-ground help for the fight against Ebola in West Africa – but plans to contract...

IPCC's 'most important report' sets stage for Paris climate talks

By Michael Hopkin, The Conversation

Members of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) say they are confident their latest report, released in Copenhagen...

Abbott claws back but university fee deregulation deeply unpopular

By Michelle Grattan, University of Canberra

Columnists

“ The Liberal Party now has no obvious heir – and Abbott probably likes it that way

Michelle Grattan

“ On heels, corsets and hummingbird feathers – a tasting plate of fashion ideas

Rosie Findlay

Mike Sandiford – “We are tracking to increase electricity sector emissions by 9% for FY2014-15”

David Glance – “Online courses, diets, and going to the gym. The science of why we give up”

Elizabeth Dori Tunstall – “She uses craft and design to get Indian kids and teachers to learn to play together”

Adrian Beaumont – “Labor is clearly ahead in Vic – Newspoll update. Morgan has a shock Qld poll”

More Columnists